Royal Free London Involvement Register

Why do we need your help?

At the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust (RFL), we are committed to working in partnership with patients and carers, the public and local communities.

We want to ensure that patient and carer voices are at the heart of what we do because we know that those who use our services have the best insight into how to make things better.

What is the Involvement Register?

We have developed an involvement register to ensure we have patient and carer voices available to help with involvement activities across our hospitals.

By signing up, you will be informed about opportunities to get involved with the design and improvement of our services.

What type of activities could I get involved in?

This is not an exhaustive list and you do not have to get involved in every activity.

How can I sign up?

To hear about opportunities to get involved, you can fill in an application form on our website:

www.royalfree.nhs.uk/patientinvolvement

What happens next?

You will receive a weekly email with current opportunities to get involved.

You will be invited to contact the team if you are interested in any of the activities.

Staff will get in touch with more information about your involvement with the activity if you are selected.

Please note that some activities may receive more interest from patient voice partners than we can accommodate. This means there may be times when you are not selected to be involved in an activity.

How can I find out more information?

For more information about the involvement register, or if you are having trouble completing the online application form, please email us at:
